Joker and La Toursine, Mr. T. L. Evans magnificent hunters, were 19ing down on the clean straw in their stalls yesterday afternoon, after a journey of three days and nights. They will be ready to compete in the open-for-all hunter class to-night. Among other famous horses seen in the stalls is Mrs. Blair Johnson's superb saddler, Robin Adair, Mr. McComb's Kentucky Cardinal, a prize winner at many shows: Mr. Richard Donnelly's great high jumper, Rifle, and many others whose name will be familiar before the show is three days old. In the rear of the amphitheatre the expensers are hammering away in the effort to complete an additional shelter for the vehicles which have overflowed all the available space. This shed will be ready to-day before the show opens. Meanwhile many of the vehicles are stored temporarily in the ring.

Great Euilling Adorned.

The great building now has on its gala attire. It has been adorned with elekant taste and the structure, even in its vacancy and silence, presents an attractive appearance, which is but a harbinger of what will be seen when every tier of seats around the great brown ellipse, from the base to caves, is filled with the fashlonables on dress parade. A more beautiful spectacle is seldom beheld than this bewildering array of humanity, the masculine portion in sombre black and snowy white, while the feminine element are arrayed in all the yaried colors that fashlon and the predilections of the wearers will permit. The audiences this year promise to excel even the great assemblages of last year and year before, both in numbers and in personnel. The exhibition is no less a beauty show than a horse show, and to many the human element is the more interesting.

Around the upper timbers of the big structure shields and crossed flass alternate with many colored resettes of draped bunting, in which symmetry of arrangement as well as the harmony and variety and colors produce a charming decorative effect. Close to the ring are the white-robed boxes, fit frames for the pictures of beauty to be seen therein, which evtend all around the great building. These boxes are equipped with comfortable chairs and will seat each form six to nine persons, according to the pleasure of the owner. For the concerts during the week the entire house will be free to the purchaser of general admission tickets. At other times the boxes and many of the best seats are reserved and are open only to the holders of the coupons corresponding to the seat numbers. Bearining with No. 1 in each row, just over the entrance, the seat are numbered to the eastward in each row, just over the entrance, the seat are numbered to the eastward in each row being designated by letters from A to J the first letter being the row next to the boxes and J the highest row, extending to the building and back to the point whence the number salt around t

Exits and Entrances.

Exits and Entrances.

The building has an abundance of exits and entrances, so that it can be emptied in a few minutes if desired. Besides the great doors in front and rear there are exits at intervals all around. The pitch of the building affords ample ventilation for the great crowd. The cafe is situated as last year, at the extreme southwestern corner of the building beneath the tiers of seats. Under the building all around are stalls where many of the horses are sheltered. Extra police will be on hand to maintain perfect order and to prevent smoking and obviate congestion of the crowd at points of entrance and exit. For the convenience of coupen holders a large force of ushers has been engaged, and in addition to these there are many boys selling the handsome programmes of the show, the largest and finest ever issued here. The privilege of selling confec-tioneries has been let, and linyler's can be had at any moment during the show. The horses, which after all constitute The horses, which after all constitute the show, were never so numerous or of such a class. Both in the harness and saddle classes there are many entries and a variety such as seldom seen. The most famous strains of horses are here, and there are so many fine animals that it is going to puzzle disinterested expert judges to pick the ribbon wearers from such magnificent fields.

Many Crowd Around the Amphitheatre
Viewing the Beautiful Animals.
The scenes about the Horse Show grounds are eminently suggestive of a holiday. Crowds are all the time trying to get a glimpse of the arena, in which are to be the final exhibitions of the equine beauties whose charms are attracting so many visitors and exciting the extravegant claims of partisans. Yesterday was ideal weather for visitors to the grounds, save that the rain of Sunday night made, walking a matter of more interest than pleasure. Outside the arena there was mud—mud to the shoe mouth everywhere. But mud does not matter to the man or woman who is in search of fine horseflesh, and the crowds who visited the stables yesterday afternoon were as large as should have been exnected on a fine day.

The stables of Dr. W. E. Woodend are the most extensive at the grounds. They were the objective point of all visitors yesierday. Other horses might claim attention later, but those in the stalls of the New York man were sure to get first attention.

A stroil through the stables proved most entertaining. It looked as though the proprietor had tried to have on hand a horse for every class. A beautiful Sheland pony and a coach dog, each as gentle as a peodle, occupied an open stall at the entrance to the row of stalls devoted to Dr. Woodend's stud, and there were the provision of the proprietor was a provisional and there were the other own of stalls devoted to Dr. Woodend's stud, and there

She has taken first prize at nearly every show where exhibited, and the spectator who spends a ten-minutes patting her nose and smoothing her glossy cont comes away with the Impression that Maple Leaf should have about all she contends for.

Then there are Harmony, Melody and Pitter-Patter, a random team, that holds an unbeaten record. This fine trie will create a sensation when it enters the ring.

Dr. Woodend's stable is at present the feature of the Horse Show. Whether the same can be said after to-dry remains to be seen. Dr. Woodend himself will reach Richmond to-night. His borses are said to be the finest in any gentleman's stable in New York, and his coachman and grooms claim that only professionals can beat him.

Smith, of the Hampton stock farm, who left with him Saturday for Kansas City, Garnett Ripple, according to well authenticated report, realized $2,500 for his owner. The golding is a good one, and is likely to ears his new owner considerable money before the season ends.

Among the other prize winners here last year, which will be seen no more, a chestnut mare, which won the high jump last year over a fine field. The mare was owned by Robert M. Taylor, Last spring she accidentally hanged herself in her stall, a serious loss to her owner.

Another of last year's winners which will not be here is Lightfoot, the beautiful black gelding which carried off the blue ribbon and the championship last year over such a prize winner as Robin Adair, Lightfoot was sold at the close of the show last year to Mr. Moore, a wealthy Chicage horse fancier. The McComb stables have a worthy successor on exhibition this year in Kentucky Cardinal, Mr. Walier Holliday's bay gelding. Kentucky Cardinal is by Highland Denmark, by Miss Tilton, and is a beautiful bay, sixteen hands high and just six years old. Another horse which promises to make Robin Adair to look to his laureis is Maple Leaf, the magnificent bay mare owned by Dr. W. E. Woodend, which has won blues at all the great shows of the North and East. Maple Leaf is a beautiful mare, sixteen hands high, prettily marked. She is just five years old. The most dimunitive of all the ponies here is Peter Powell, a pretty black, only ten hands and two inches high, and just five years old. Peter is wonderfully trained, and will be the sensation of the day in the ponles' harness class on Thursday evening. The next smallest entry is

There are some very happily named pairs in the various harness classes to be seen this year. For instance, Dr. Woodend has a pair of browns named Baron Brown and Brown Baron. Mrs. John Getken has a well named pair in Newsboy and Shopgirl, each about fourteen hands three inches high, and entered in the harness classes. Tarquin and Brutus are reminiscent of Roman history, and Brandy and Soda, Mr. T. F. Johnson's harness pair, would appeal to the average Britisher eloquently. Mr. Hollister has a heautiful pair of chestnut geldings, each just fifteen hands high, and about the same age, named Fascination and Elevation.

Among the favorites of last year that will not be seen this year are Dulany's Bachelor, Courtland Smith's Upto-Date and Tip-Top, Banister and Sea Gull, Ogonquit, Mr. Dulany's Kathleen and many others. In their places, however, are more famous horses, and horses that will prove even better performers, Among these are Chapple, Rille, Your Fellow, Lady Winsome, Freelance, Joker, La Touraine, Colleen Bawn, Marjorie Long, Red Rayen, Hlawatha and many others that have taken ribbons in fast company.

HOTELS ARE OVERFLOWING

Orowds All the Hostelries.

The hotel accommodations of the city will be taxed to the utmost to entertain the crowds that will be here to attend the Horse Show. The Jefferson has not a vacant room, if the reservations be counted. The same is true of Murphy's and the Lexington. Rueger's is nearly filled up. The boarding houses of the city are overflowing. By to-night it will be a difficult matter for the stranger to obtain bed and board in Richmond. The number of visitors this year is far greater than in any previous year, and hotel men are not at all hopeful of being able to core for the influx of visitors.

The horse lover found hotel lobbies a most congenial field last night. The breeder and the exhibitor of the equine from all over the State were there, and they were always willing and ready to talk horse. The average Virginian is as naturally a horseman as a duck is a water fowl, but the fact is not so clearly realized until the Richmond Horse Show is on. The United States Marine Band, which is to furnish the music for the Horse Show, arrived last night. Salelman, the leader, has lodgings at Murphy's, He said last night that he had assured the boys last night that he had assured the boys under him they would have a fine time at the Richmond Horse Show, and his ob-servation thus far had led him to believe he would not have to take anything

The musicians who will furnish the melody for the show are about equally divided between brass and reed performers.

ALL HAVE THE SHOW INFECTION.

It is somewhat remarkable, and rather funny that many people who are here hesitate to say that they came to Richmond to attend the Horse Show. Several staid lawyers from distant counties are in the city to remain until Saturday.

"I came to Fischmond in connection with the case of the Pennsylvania Railway and the two tugs the Trigg Company was building for the railway company when the shipyard went into the hands of a receiver," said Colonol Francis L. Smith, of Alexandria, at Murphy's. He will be here one or two days and will attend the Horse Show.

The Solicitor devoted himself largely to a review and summing up of the evidence adduced by the prosecution concerning threats, next taking up and comparing the testimony of witnesses on the two sides relative to the shooting with a view to showing that Mr. Gonzales was unarmed and sought to avoid a difficulty when he met the defendant on the day of the shooting.

DID NOT CONCEDE IT.

The Solicitor was followed by Mr. Reinbert, of counsel for the defense, who said among other things that the defense did not concede that N. G. Gonzales was unarmed at the time he was shot. Stress was laid by counsel upon the charges made by Mr. Gonzales against the defendant to show, as he stated, the influence they had on the defendant's mind, when he met Mr. Gonzales, January 15th.

Attorney 'Villiam Elliott, Jr., followed. He contended that Mr. Gonzales was within his right in discussing a man in public life and asserted that Mr. Tillman had recourse to the libel law for redress. He said that a number of utterances contained in the editorials which had been read were extracts from other newspa-pers, and added that ar. Gonzales had not mentioned the home life, of the defendant, Mr. Elliott said the dying declaration taken down in shorthand had not been introduced because the stenographer making it was Editor Gonzales' private stenographer.

introduced because the stenographer making it was Editor Gonzales' private stenographer.

Mr. Elliott made use of the statement made by the defendant that he had the "drop" on Gonzales.

DYING STATEMENTS.

Colonel George Johnstone began his address to the jury in behalf of the defendant, when court reconvened at 3 P. M. and apoke for two and a half hours. He contended that the liberty of the press did not give the right to use denunciation. He recviewed the testimony leading up to the shooting and insisted that the two statements testified to as the dying declarations of Editor Gonzales were at variance and that the variance was due to the morphine admistered to him after he was shot.

Mr. Johnstone had the sheriff stand before the jury with Mr. Gonzales' overcoat on and pointing to the bullet hole, claimed it supported the defendant's version of the shooting.

Mr. Asbill, also of counsel for the State, was the last to address the jury, but had but fa'rly begun when the hour of adjournment arrived. He said it was five months after the last editorial was written concerning Mr. Tillman that the shooting occurred and contended that the editorials must be eliminated from consideration.

bers of the State Democratic Committee are preparing to enter the lists and stump the county for Brauer and against the man who, with a portion of the county organization has hurled defiance in the face of the State head of the party.

The action of the County Committee last Saturday, when for a second time it came forth with a denial of any jurisdiction over it on the part of the Central Committee, has provoked no little feeling among some of the members of the last named body. This second defiant pronouncement from the county has very considerably aggravated a situation already acute, and there are indications of a possible development or two from this direction.

a possible development or two from this direction.

Already it is said that some of the State committeemen will get square down into the fight and work for the man whom they have recognized as the Democratic nominee. Among the names mentioned in this connection are those of Judge Asa Watkins, of Farmville, and Mr. J. C. Parker, of Southampton. Both of these gentlemen are exceedingly well known, and if they enter the lists as it is said they will do, with a possible one or two more, there is every reason to believe that warm times are ahead. Judge Watkins is Commenwealth's attorney of his county, and was formerly county judge, and now a member of the State Senate. Mr. Parker was a member of the Legislature, and is one of the finest speakers in the State.

When inquiries were made yesterday at the office of W. H. Sands, Brauer's attorney, nothing positive could be learned about the matter. Mr. Sands admitted that they were in correspondence with both the gentlemen mentioned, but said nothing definite had been heard from them. The speaking will begin soon, but it is impossible to fix the date exactly.

It was gathered yesterday that there has been somewhat of a change of plan since Saturday; and that the four gentlemen—Messrs. Ryan, Meyer, Graves and Kellam—who signed a paper owning allegiance to the State Committee and deploring the stand taken by the County Committee, will not resign from the last numed body, of which they are members. They will certainly not do this at present. There is something more startling browing, and the sum and substance of it is that a movement is being quictly made to have these gentlemen become the nucleus of a new county committee. Having professed allegiance to the party head, they will refuse, it is said, to afflict with a portion of the county as hurled defiance in the ate head of the party.
